

I was brought into contact with baking for the first time in 2020 during the pandemic and then I was deeply fall in love with it. When I bake, the kitchen is the only place that exists in my creative world. I love the aroma of the sweet dessert and tasty food when the oven tinkled. I love the smile on people face while they ate my pastries. Baking is magic spell which is two-sided for me. On the one hand, I can use my "spells" to make others happy by creating delicious sweets for them to enjoy. On the other hand, each spell I cast has a significant effect on myself too. No matter where I go in the future, I hope to bring the magic of baking to others while growing alongside it.
